We are dedicated to educating those who serve, or have served, and have worked hard to refine our admissions process to make it as simple as possible for our military students. We keep our overall fees to a minimum and recently eliminated our Transfer Credit Evaluation fee. There is no fee to apply and the application can be completed in less than 15 minutes. Once students have applied they are assigned a dedicated admissions staff member who understands the challenges our military and veteran students may face and assists them with submitting required documentation, completing the registration or transfer credit process, and navigating the classroom and eCampus.

Our collective goal is to educate and support military members, veterans and their families as they navigate the academic world. We have dedicated admissions personnel, many of whom are themselves veterans or have worked with servicemembers for a number of years. We have flexible business hours to be available whenever current or prospective military students need guidance, whether via phone, email or chat. Our admissions and support staff help them understand their degree and financial options, and guide them to other services they may need such as disability accommodations or tutoring. We have a military and VA funding department which can answer questions and help the student navigate securing tuition assistance and veterans benefits.

APUS recently opened a new Veterans Center on its Charles Town, West Virginia campus, which, along with our existing virtual veterans center, offers valuable resources and information to our veteran students. In addition to the eCampus, we also offer ClearPath, a communication and networking tool which offers students a variety of learning applications as another route to understanding enrollment processes, tuition assistance, VA funding options and a host of other topics. Within ClearPath, students can connect with peers and also join communities of interest.

ECPI University values military/veteran students because we find their maturity level and added life experiences elevate the level of learning throughout campus. They've served us; now we seek to serve them by making the admissions process as effortless as possible.

Most of our military admissions team is comprised of former service members or spouses whose first objective is to help prospective applicants find the right program that builds upon their interests, aptitude, and military experience. After that, our financial aid experts help them navigate the GI Bill, Vocational Rehab programs, and Tuition Assistance for active duty personnel. We also offer registration/application fee waivers with copy of LES or “honorable discharge” on DD214.

What’s more, ECPI University carefully evaluates military/veteran students Joint Services and any college transcripts to determine if we can award college level credit for their prior military training schools. Throughout the admissions process, our advisors are highly accessible via text, email, phone and chat.

The Department of Veteran Affairs has recognized ECPI University’s outreach to Veterans by assigning a full-time Vet for Success Counselor (VSOC) here on campus who is available for one-on-one counseling about VA benefits for any Veteran or military student.

How are you poised to assist veterans and service members to navigate this process?

Our team walks the military/veteran student through the application using “Zoom” or “Join.me” sites. We also request official
