Student Learning Outcomes Matrix Narrative:

Your outcomes assessment plan must include, at minimum, two direct and two indirect measures across ALL student learning outcomes (not for each SLO). All SLOs must be measured at least once by a direct measure. Some measurement tools will be used to measure more than one student learning outcome. Below, narrate how you “close the loop” by describing any changes and improvements you made and plan to make as a result of your assessment activity:

- Address ALL SLOs – those that meet or exceed expectations and those that do not.
- Explain why you have measures with insufficient data.
- Describe how this outcomes assessment data drives curricular and other decisions.
- Describe how have you improved/changed this year based on this data (close the loop).

Sport Management – Bachelor’s

Direct Measures

Closing the loop from last year, 74% of students now successfully score 85% or better on Direct Measure 2 from SPMT200. The increase is likely a result of two things – the percent zero has decreased, meaning that early intervention from faculty to ensure students are engaged in the course has been successful. Second, the revision of the course to include an eTextbook has helped structure the course for students in the first course of their major.

This year, expectations were not met for SLO3 and SLO5 at the undergraduate level. For the direct measure for SLO3, only 67% of students successfully scored an 85% on their assessment. The percent zero for this assignment was 7%, which is quite high. Similarly to the intervention strategy for SPMT200 last year, as this is another course that students take early in their program it will be important to ensure that faculty are reaching out to students early if they seem to be struggling or disengaged from the course. This course is also scheduled to undergo revision in Q3 of 2025 and there will be the opportunity to ensure alignment of content with assessments to ensure that students are as prepared as possible. Regarding SLO5, students did not meet expectations on both of the direct measures related to financial principles in Sport Management. This suggests that there is a need for additional education in these areas. There are currently limited sport finance principles covered in the lower-level courses, but there may be need to integrate some early exposure prior to the upper-level courses (like SPMT410 and SPMT455) that utilize financial principles. Additionally, SPMT410 underwent revision in Q1 of 2025 and SPMT455 will undergo revision in Q4 of 2025. During both revisions the Subject Matter Experts have/will ensure that the foundational principles of finance are building blocks for these courses.

Indirect Measures

Students felt confident that they had been prepared to accomplish SLOs 3-6. They did not feel as confident about their abilities related to SLO1 and SLO2, contemporary sport management practices and applying management practices to sport facilities. 77% and 78% of students respectively met the expectation, which is not far from the 80% benchmark. This is curious, however, as these SLOs are different than those not met according to the direct measures. From the qualitative data associated with the end of course survey for SPMT440 (measure for SLO1), students found the course valuable and felt that they, “have a good foundation but are by no means an expert.” For this particular course students may perceive themselves to be less capable in the area of event management simply because there are so many components to successfully running a sporting event. Perhaps it is necessary to reinforce that one course in event management will create the foundation, but students should not expect to be experts after only one course. Setting these expectations may be important in guiding student perception. As it relates to SPMT 316 (SLO2 metric) the qualitative data shared was all positive. Students felt that “There were lots of material that was aimed at facility management, and I feel more prepared to tackle this topic. The last project although very long was a nice bow tie on the course to show all the elements of the class and made us use them not just learn what they were.” This may require further analysis to better understand why students perceive that they are not well prepared to apply management principles to sport facilities despite positive qualitative feedback and direct measure outcomes suggesting that they are, in fact, prepared to do so.

Sport Management – Master’s Direct Measures

Student learning outcomes were met or exceeded for all Master’s level student learning outcomes. This is a strong indicator of student achievement but does beg the question – is there an opportunity to increase rigor on some of these assignments, or are the students simply mastering the concepts? In the case of SPMT610, the average grade on the assignment was a 97% this suggests that there may be an opportunity for additional rigor. Using data such as this, this course underwent revision in 2025 with the new version launching in late 2025. All assessments were evaluated and updated.

Indirect Measures

Students perceived themselves to be able to meet the SLOs for SLOs 1, 2, 4, and 5. They did not perceive themselves to be able to adequately utilize qualitative and quantitative data to assess financial challenges (77% agreed or strongly agreed that they were prepared to do so). While this is close to the 80% benchmark it is interesting to consider that the course (SPMT610) used as the indirect measure had incredibly high success rates from the direct measures. This suggests the need for assignment re-evaluation. This course was revised at the end of 2024 and all assignments were updated or changed based upon numerous data points.

Esport – Bachelor’s

Direct Measures

SLOs 1, 3-6 met or exceeded expectation. SLO2 was not met with the direct measure for the SLO indicating only a 58% success rate. SLO2 requires the examination of ethical issues in esports and is measured through a diversity related assignment in the ESPT 201 Course (Contemporary Issues in Esport). This course underwent major revision in Q4 2024/Q12025 and the new version of the course has been launched in May of 2025. As such, the data from the course will be re-presented in the next annual report. The course was significantly revised to create scaffolding assignments and learning checks prior to the major assignments. This should help the students more thoroughly understand the course content and be able to apply it to their future assignments.

Indirect Measures

While we have reported data from the end of course surveys in Esport courses, the sample sizes are so small that it is hard to draw any conclusions from this data. As the sample sizes increase, these will be important metrics to consider. Similarly, the sample sizes for supervision evaluation feedback are also very small, though indicate strong student performance across all outcomes when enacted in an applied setting.

OEG Narrative:

Goal 1 – Our retention rates for the Sport Management Master’s program is on track. Our undergraduate retention rates for both the Sport Management and Esport programs are not where we want them to be. One ongoing challenge in the esport program is that many students engage with the esport program out of interest, but with no intent to complete the program or start a career in the esport industry. This is reflected in the progression to 6th course. As an institution we see a large number of students transfer in and out of programs. We have implemented an advising initiative, helps students better model their degree plan and determine which courses to take when, which should help facilitate student progression.

As for the FEI scores, Goal 2, our Sport Management faculty are doing an excellent job. The FEI index aggregates student success survey scores along with faculty engagement scores – how often they’re in the classroom and grading on time. We have two new part-time faculty working on the esports team, so they are just learning the ropes and the processes here at APUS. We operate a bit differently than other academic institutions and these two folks, in particular, are coming directly from industry. With additional training and support I am confident that the Esport FEI scores will increase dramatically in the next year.

Goal 3 – All faculty remain highly engaged in professional development and in the program.

Goal 4 – Student satisfaction with the course quality, faculty engagement, and career relatedness remain high. These are excellent indicators of our students’ perceptions of the program(s).
