MILH362
Ancient Military History
Credit Hours: Three
Length of Course: 8-Weeks
Prerequisite: None but HIST300 highly recommended

The course materials, assignments, learning outcomes, and expectations in upper level (300-400) undergraduate courses assume that you have completed lower level (100-200) History courses to develop content knowledge and skills necessary for research, writing, and critical thinking.

Students who have not fulfilled these requirements or awarded transfer credit should strongly consider completing these requirements prior to registering for upper level courses.

Course Description (Catalog)

MILH362-Ancient Military History— is a comprehensive survey of ancient and classical warfare (prehistory to c. AD 500) in Western Civilization from the origins of warfare in the Paleolithic period to the decline and fall of the Western Roman Empire in the fifth century. The millennia under study in this course were a dynamic period in warfare, full of important discoveries and innovations in martial technologies, strategy, organization and combined-arms tactics, fortification, siegecraft, and naval warfare. Students will read and analyze a wide variety of sources on ancient and classical warfare in Mesopotamia and the Near East (Sumerian, Akkadian, Babylonian, Hittite, Assyrian and Persian), Egypt (Old, Middle and New Kingdom), Greece (Mycenaean, Archaic, Hellenic and Hellenistic) and Rome (Republican and Imperial) in order to develop an appreciation of the important contributions of these civilizations to the continuity of warfighting in the Western world.

Course Scope

MILH362-Ancient Military History covers a dynamic period in the history of warfare in the Near East and Europe over thirty-seven centuries (c.3200 BC to 500 AD). This period witnessed the rise of organized warfare in Mesopotamia and Egypt during the Bronze Age. The early Iron Age saw the rise of powerful empires like Assyria and Persia capable of fielding large armies over vast territories using combined arms tactics and capable of defeating sophisticated enemy fortifications. In archaic Greece, the establishment of powerful thalassocracies and rise the phalanx ushered in unique period of collective combat where close-order warfare between rival poleis created a system of battle capable of first fending off Persian invasions, and then under the command of Macedonia, defeating Persia and ushering in the Hellenistic era where Greek martial ideas diffused throughout the Mediterranean (influencing early Rome and Carthage) and as far east as India. In Italy, the Romans threw off their Etruscan masters and defeated rivals up and down the peninsula, forging a military capable of winning the Mediterranean basin and setting up an empire that would control Western Europe for five hundred years (31 BC to 476 AD). But Rome would eventually be challenged by first Parthia and then the Sassanians in the east and the rising Germanic tribes in the north, leading the collapse of the Western Roman Empire in the late fifth century and the continuation of the Eastern Roman Empire as Byzantium.

Course Objectives

As a result of successfully completing this course, students should be able to:

CO-1: Critique the evolution of martial technologies and warfare in the Paleolithic and Neolithic periods.
CO-2: Evaluate the martial ethos, organization, tactics and military technologies of significant Bronze Age and Iron Age Western civilizations (Mesopotamian, Egyptian, Persian, Hellenic, Hellenistic, and Roman) and how they informed the development of warfare in Western Civilization during the ancient and classical periods.
CO-3: Interpret the significance of fortification and siegecraft in ancient and classical warfare.
CO-4: Assess the development of naval warfare in the ancient and classical periods.
CO-5: Explain the dialectic between civilizations and nomadic cultures and the impact of this relationship on the development of warfare.
CO-6: Assess the military reasons behind the fall of the Western Roman Empire.
CO-7: Interpret the impact of significant military personalities and martial events on the development of Western civilizations.

Course Delivery Method

This course delivery is via distance learning and enables students to complete academic work in a flexible manner, completely online. APUS ensures that the proper course materials and access to an online learning management
STUDENT WARNING: This course syllabus is from a previous semester archive and serves only as a preparatory reference. Please use this syllabus as a reference only until the professor opens the classroom and you have access to the updated course syllabus. Please do NOT purchase any books or start any work based on this syllabus; this syllabus may NOT be the one that your individual instructor uses for a course that has not yet started. System are available to you. Course materials and access to an online learning management system are available to each student. Assignments for this class include quizzes/exams (both non-proctored), written assignments, and discussion boards.

In online courses, we construct knowledge not just by completing readings and assignments. An important part of the process is communicating with classmates and learning from what they have to say. As such, we need to share online conversations about ideas.

Direct interaction is a key feature of the educational experience. For that reason, it is important that you interact with fellow students and the course instructor during the course as specified in this syllabus. Additionally, you can contact the instructor during posted office hours.

You are expected to submit classroom assignments by the posted due date and to complete the course according to the published class schedule. As adults, students, and working professionals we understand you must manage competing demands on your time. Should you need additional time to complete an assignment please contact the faculty before the due date so you can discuss the situation and determine an acceptable resolution. Routine submission of late assignments is unacceptable and may result in points deducted from your final course grade.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Important Note: The Director of History and Military History programs requires conformity with the traditional citation method used by Historians. This is the University of Chicago Style Manual and its Turabian offshoot. Citations will follow traditional endnote attribution. Do not use parenthetical (APA / MLA) variations. Students in History cannot use Wikipedia or encyclopedias (this includes online encyclopedias) as references for any form of assignment. You may use dictionaries for specific definitions when necessary.

Recommended References:

The APUS Online Library, in the Tutorial & Student Studies Center provides a link to the Chicago Style Manual – Online. If you are majoring in History or Military History, then it is highly recommended that you purchase a bound version of this style manual because you will need to follow this citation manual in all of your History and Military History courses.

Microsoft Word (if you do not have MS Word, please save all files as a Rich Text Format (.rtf). NOTE - The classroom only supports .doc, .docx, and .rtf files. Please visit Adobe for a free copy of Adobe Reader.

Evaluation Procedures

MILH362--ANCIENT MILITARY HISTORY BREAK-DOWN

Forum Assignments: Students are required to submit five (5) graded Forums replies to the posted questions. These will be posted weeks 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6. Each of these postings is worth 60 points (300 points total). See Discussion Board link in e-classroom for more information

Reading Reports: A total of three (3) reading reports will be completed over the course of the semester. Each report will be 800 to 1,000 words in length and is worth 100 points each. Together, these reading reports comprise 30 percent of your total grade. Reading Reports will be available to write on in Weeks 2, 3, 4 and 5. Please complete any three of these reports. You may not do four reports for extra credit or to make up for poor performance on a previous report.
STUDENT WARNING: This course syllabus is from a previous semester archive and serves only as a preparatory reference. Please use this syllabus as a reference only until the professor opens the classroom and you have access to the updated course syllabus. Please do NOT purchase any books or start any work based on this syllabus; this syllabus may NOT be the one that your individual instructor uses for a course that has not yet started. If you need to verify course textbooks, please refer to the online course description through your student portal. This syllabus is proprietary material of APUS.

PowerPoint Quizzes: Students will complete two quizzes based on information found in the PowerPoint presentations for the class. Each quiz will consist of 25 questions worth 2 points per question and will be due Weeks 4 and 6. Quizzes are open book, open note and not timed. Quiz #1 is over Weeks 2-4 and Quiz #2 is over Weeks 5 and 6.

Research Paper: An original research paper over on topic in ancient military history will be submitted during this semester. See Week 7 Assignment for details. The research paper will 2,800 minimum word count, minus citation and a bibliography. Your research paper topic, thesis concept, and working bibliography will be due during the 3rd week of this course, while the paper itself is due during the 7th week of instruction. The research paper is worth 200 points or 20 percent of your total grade.

Final Examination: There will be an open-book final during Week 8. The final will consist of fifty identifications. The final will be worth 10 percent of your total grade.

Policies

Please see the Student Handbook to reference all University policies. Quick links to frequently asked question about policies are listed below.

- Drop/Withdrawal Policy
- Plagiarism Policy
- Extension Process and Policy
- Disability Accommodations

Writing Expectations

- Typewritten in double-spaced format
- Times New Roman 12-point font
- Page margins Top, Bottom, Left Side and Right Side = 1 inch, with reasonable accommodation being made for special situations and online submission variances.
- Footnotes as applicable

Citation and Reference Style

Students in this course will follow the Chicago Manual of Style as the sole citation and reference style used in written work submitted as part of coursework to the University.

Late Assignments

Students are expected to submit classroom assignments by the posted due date and to complete the course according to the published class schedule. As adults, students, and working professionals I understand you must manage competing demands on your time. Should you need additional time to complete an assignment please contact me before the due date so we can discuss the situation and determine an acceptable resolution. Routine submission of late assignments is unacceptable and may result in points deducted from your final course grade. If I deduct points, it will be within the overarching policy set forth by the Directors of the History and Military History programs. This general policy is that I may reduce assignments that are one week late by 25 percent of the grade, two weeks late by 50 percent, and anything later than that may receive a zero. There are exceptions to this policy, on a case-by-case basis, and generally deal with emergencies.

Netiquette

Online universities promote the advance of knowledge through positive and constructive debate--both inside and outside the classroom. Discussions on the Internet, however, can occasionally degenerate into needless insults and “flaming.” Such activity and the loss of good manners are not acceptable in a university setting--basic academic rules of good behavior and proper “Netiquette” must persist. Remember that you are in a place for the fun and excitement of learning that does not include descent to personal attacks, or student attempts to stifle the discussion of others.

- Technology Limitations: While you should feel free to explore the full-range of creative composition in your formal papers, keep e-mail layouts simple. The Educator classroom may not fully support MIME or HTML encoded messages, which means that bold face, italics, underlining, and a variety of color-coding or other visual effects will not translate in your e-mail messages.
- Humor Note: Despite the best of intentions, jokes and--especially--satire can easily get lost or taken seriously. If you feel the need for humor, you may wish to add “emoticons” to help alert your readers.

Online Library

The Online Library is available to enrolled students and faculty from inside the electronic campus. This is your starting point for access to online books, subscription periodicals, and Web resources that are designed to support your classes and generally not available through search engines on the open Web. In addition, the Online Library provides access to special learning resources, which the University has contracted to assist with your studies. Questions can be directed to librarian@apus.edu.

- Charles Town Library and Inter Library Loan: The University maintains a special library with a limited number of supporting volumes, collection of our professors’ publication, and services to search and borrow research books and articles from other libraries.
- Electronic Books: You can use the online library to uncover and download over 50,000 titles, which have been scanned and made available in electronic format.
- Electronic Journals: The University provides access to over 12,000 journals, which are available in electronic form and only through limited subscription services.
- Smarthinking: Students have access to ten free hours of tutoring service per year through Smarthinking. Tutoring is available in the following subjects: math (basic math through advanced calculus), science (biology, chemistry, and physics), accounting, statistics, economics, Spanish, writing, grammar, and more. Additional information is located in the Online Library. From the Online Library home page, click on either the “Writing Center” or “Tutoring Center” and then click “Smarthinking.” All login information is available.

The AMU/APU Library Guides provide access to collections of trusted sites on the Open Web and licensed resources on the Deep Web. These are specially tailored for academic research at APUS:
