Course Summary

Course: RELS405 Title: Myth and Ritual
Length of Course: 8
Prerequisites: N/A Credit Hours: 3

Description

Course Description: This course is a study of the role of myth and ritual in historical terms as well as modern myth and ritual developments. Students explore the influence of pervasive myths and rituals in society as they are infused throughout people and religious thought. Students will examine the continued influences of classical, religious and new myths in American popular culture and society today.

Course Scope:

This course is divided into 8 weeks and is organized to give students a broad context in which to study myth and ritual developments. In this course, students will read a variety of myths from various geographic areas and study the various rituals that correspond to these parts of the world. Instruction is primarily textbook driven with accompanied online lectures and online classroom weekly forums discussion.

Because this is a survey course of a broad subject, it will out of necessity cover each topic with a broad brush. However, the “Additional Resources” section in each week’s Lessons will allow a deeper look into any subject area that particularly attracts the student. This will enable students to research topics related to the material discussed and covered in the textbook.

Objectives

After you have completed this course, you should be able to:

- Explain what myth and ritual are and are not and compare myths to other “stories” such as legends and folktales
- Discuss the purpose of mythology and rituals, both in contemporary society and in ancient times
- Discuss universal characteristics or themes common to all myths
- Describe and provide examples of the various types of myths including: Creation and Cosmology myths, myths of the Gods, Hero myths, Fertility myths, Place and Object myths, etc.

Evaluation

The nature of an online course dictates a significant degree of independent work. I will provide you with the resources, experience, and guidance; you assume the responsibility for managing your time, learning the material, and completing assignments on time.

It is imperative that you read your messages every time you log into the classroom. Important updates to your assignments, due dates, etc. will be sent to you via message or posted in the course announcements.

For the purposes of this course, a “week” is defined as the time period between Monday–Sunday. The first week begins on the first day of the semester and ends at 11:55 p.m. Eastern Time, the following Sunday.

I have designed this course so that your weekly readings include:

- Several weekly readings
- A weekly lesson

Grades in this course are based on the following:

1. Class Participation in Forums: Participation will be evaluated based on the degree of interaction you have with your instructor and with your fellow students.

   You are required to participate in classroom Forums during the week. Respecting your busy schedules, Forum work is asynchronous, meaning you are not required to be online at a specific time or place with the professor and other members of your course. Instead, you post your comments in Forums. (You certainly may choose to interact synchronously with your classmates or me via a chat room, however). It is not acceptable to wait until Sunday (the last day of the online week) to begin participating in the discussions, as it does not give your classmates ample time to respond to your post, or you to theirs. You must participate, substantively, during the week to fulfill the Forum requirements.

   In addition, forum work must be posted in the classroom on the week assigned. Please keep in mind that the weeks run Monday-Sunday. Forums will not be accepted via email, snail mail, or phone calls. And, all posted discussions must be relevant to the week’s reading. That is: Week 4 requires a forum on the readings and assignments for Week 4. Postings unrelated to the week’s discussion will not be counted as participation.

   Full credit for a Forum post is given for signing in weekly and contributing to the forum, each week, with meaningful and valid comments. Please see procedure below.

The Forum Procedures are:

1) Submit your initial posting(s) in the Forum section of the classroom, making sure that it is at least 250+ words long and demonstrates:
   a) a recall of concepts and theories in the book and/or lectures,
   b) critical thinking and evaluation through examples that assess the validity of the concept,
   c) application of outside information to illustrate both the concepts being discussed and your opinion on this topic.

2) You must attribute a source when using information from your readings, lectures, and other outside sources, although in forums, a specific citation style is not required.

3) Respond to the initial forum posting of at least TWO of your classmates, making sure that these are substantial responses of at least 100 words to each classmate.

Helpful Hint: In order to complete your Forum posts, click on the weekly topic and create a new post by clicking on the "Post New Thread" link at the top of this page. When you are done typing in the text box, click "post message," at the bottom of the text box. When responding to one of your classmates, you simply need to click on the "Reply" button to the right of their name. Again, when you are done typing in the text box, click "post message," at the bottom of the text box.

2. Other Assignments: Please see the "Assignments" tab in the course for details about each assignment and due dates.

3. Open Book/Open Note, UNTIMED, Midcourse Assessment: The due date for this assessment is listed in your course outline, below. Assessments are opened one week before they are due.

4. Open Book/Open Note, UNTIMED, End of Course Assessment: The due date for this assessment is listed in your course outline, below. Assessments are opened one week before they are due.

Course Guidelines

Citation and Reference Style

- Students will follow MLA format as the sole citation and reference style used in written assignments submitted as part of coursework to the Humanities Department.
- Please note that no formal citation style is graded on forum assignments in the School of Arts & Humanities—only attribution of sources (please see details regarding forum communication below).

Tutoring

- Tutor.com offers online homework help and learning resources by connecting students to certified tutors for one-on-one help. AMU and APU students are eligible for 10 free hours of tutoring provided by APUS. Tutors are available 24/7 unless otherwise noted. Tutor.com also has a SkillCenter Resource Library offering educational resources, worksheets, videos, websites and career help. Accessing these resources does not count against tutoring hours and is also available 24/7. Please visit the APUS Library and search for "Tutor" to create an account.

Late Assignments

School of Arts & Humanities Late Policy

Students are expected to submit classroom assignments by the posted due date and to complete the course according to the published class schedule. As adults, students, and working professionals, I understand you must manage competing demands on your time. Should you need additional time to complete an assignment, please contact me before the due date so we can discuss the situation and determine an acceptable resolution.

Work posted or submitted after the assignment due date will be reduced by 10% of the potential total score possible for each day late up to a total of five days, including forum posts/replies, quizzes, and assignments. Beginning on the sixth day late through the end of the course, late work, including forum posts/replies, quizzes, and assignments, will be accepted with a grade reduction of 50% of the potential total score earned.

Turn It In

Assignments are automatically submitted to Turnitin.com within the course. Turnitin.com will analyze an assignment submission and report a similarity score. Your assignment submission is automatically processed through the assignments area of the course when you submit your work.

Academic Dishonesty

- Academic Dishonesty incorporates more than plagiarism, which is using the work of others without citation. Academic dishonesty includes any use of content purchased or retrieved from web services such as CourseHero.com or Scribd. Additionally, allowing your work to be placed on such web services is academic dishonesty, as it is enabling the dishonesty of others. The copy and pasting of content from any web page, without citation as a direct quote, is academic dishonesty. When in doubt, do not copy/paste, and always cite.

Submission Guidelines

- Some assignments may have very specific requirements for formatting (such as font, margins, etc) and submission file type (such as .docx, .pdf, etc). See the assignment instructions for details. In general, standard file types such as those associated with Microsoft Office are preferred, unless otherwise specified.
- It is the student’s responsibility to ensure the all submitted work can be accessed and opened by the instructor.
Disclaimer Statement

- Course content may vary from the outline to meet the needs of a particular group or class.

Communicating on the Forum

- Forums are the heart of the interaction in this course. The more engaged and lively the exchanges, the more interesting and fun the course will be. Only substantive comments will receive credit. Although there is a final posting day/time after which the instructor will grade and provide feedback, it is not sufficient to wait until the last day to contribute your comments/questions on the forum. The purpose of the forums is to actively participate in an on-going discussion about the assigned content.
- “Substantive” means comments that contribute something new and important to the discussion. Thus a message that simply says “I agree” is not substantive. A substantive comment contributes a new idea or perspective, a good follow-up question to a point made, offers a response to a question, provides an example or illustration of a key point, points out an inconsistency in an argument, etc.
- As a class, if we run into conflicting viewpoints, we must respect each individual’s own opinion. Hateful and hurtful comments towards other individuals, students, groups, peoples, and/or societies will not be tolerated.
- Students must post a response to the weekly forums prompt and post the required number of replies to other students – refer to the grading rubric and/or forum instructions for specific expectations on number of replies and word count requirements.
- The main response to the forum is due mid-week – refer to the grading rubric and/or forum instructions for specific expectations. Late main response posts to a forum may not be accepted without prior instructor approval.
- Replies must be posted in the week due and replies after the end of the each week may not be graded.

Quizzes and Exams

- Quizzes and exams may consist of true/false, multiple choice, and short essay questions. Each quiz/exam is accessible only once. Once a quiz/exam is accessed, you will not be able to access it again if you disconnect. Therefore, allocate time to complete your quiz. Weekly quizzes must be submitted by midnight Eastern Time, Day 7 of the assigned week. Late quizzes or exams will not be accepted without prior instructor approval.
